Helicopter Aids In Burglary Arrests

LOCAL SEARCH — A Lemon Grove man came home Monday morning and discovered three burglars in his residence. Upon his arrival, the victim summoned Sheriff's Department help as the three suspects fled. A patrol car in the area answered the call and gave chase to the three, catching one, Phillip M. Curry, 18, of San Diego. The other two suspects ran but the area was quickly sealed off by rapidly arriving patrol cars, and the department's helicopter, Astrea, was called to the scene. While Astrea circled above keeping a watch for fleeing suspects, deputies on the ground conducted a house-to-house search for the suspects and evidence. During the search a tape recorder allegedly stolen from the victim was discovered, as well as footprints of one of suspects and a jacket which was thrown under a nearby truck. The second suspect and a jacket which was thrown under a nearby truck. The second suspect was apparently able to escape before the area was entirely sealed. The helicopter, operated by John Heene and David Hainum, was in the area for about two hours, circling at about 400 feet up. After an anonymous tip was received that the suspects were hiding in a camper on San Miguel, the crew, in touch with ground deputies via radio, directed officers to campers located out of their view.

A Hurrah for Don Coryell

Football season is winding down—or up, if you prefer—to the bowl games.

That fun and games produce, character has never been disputed. It makes strong men of some strong boys. But it is more than the game that does it. It usually is the one person on a team who provides leadership.

To hundreds of thousands of sports enthusiasts in S. California and elsewhere, California State University at San Diego is Don Coryell.

Don Coryell is the head football coach there and it is he who leads the Aztecs to do battle on the gridiron.

He is the constant in the changing world of CSU-SD. Football fans and other types are proud that he is.

Pride in Coryell, his men and their accomplishments was culminated at the last game of the season in which the men of Montezuma Mesa surprisingly larrupped Iowa State 27-14 as 39,048 fans greeted him.

As you would suspect, many of the fans in the stadium were State faculty members and all of them were enthusiastic, too.

But this has to do with Coryell's constancy of character of which football is only incidental.

Constancy had not been at State this year. State had undergone a name change which is still being resisted by many. The name change was part of the upgrading by which the college became a university.

Then it acquired a new president and both the present and past president attended the game. So did the Governor of Iowa.

After a long and frustrating period of time the college finally agreed that some athletic pre-registration would be permitted. This attracted a better quality of football player—a matter Coryell had been concerned with for years.

A visiting professional basketball player (name intentionally omitted) whose team was here to play the Conquistadors, was at the lecture talking about the glories of pro sports. Then he urged that the athletic draft program be dumped to allow professional teams to hire high school graduates and college

JUST PRACTICE — Spring Valley residents who thought they saw a lot of smoke Tuesday morning were right. The house seen here was one of several structures purposely burned in practice sessions by the Heartland area fire departments. In addition to giving firemen lots of practice, the controlled burning helped clear land which will soon become a shopping center. The houses were on Jamacha rd. near Sweetwater rd.

Rains Boost Storage Total

Early heavy rains added 198 acre feet of water to Helix Water District's total storage in Cuyamaca, El Capitan and Jennings reservoirs between July 1 and December 1, according to a report presented to the district board.

That equals 64,528,200 gallons.

The report, which did not include December rain figures, showed 159 acre feet added during November.

"Recent heavy rains will increase this figure by a large amount," according to Byron M. Miller, Helix General Manager.

LG Men Face Hashish Charges

Two Lemon Grove men were arrested early Monday morning after a routine traffic stop in Poway led to the discovery of several pounds of hashish.

According to reports from the Sheriff's Department, deputies stopped a car belonging to Harley S. Kadenhead, 25, of 8292 Roy st., Lemon Grove, 24, who listed the same Roy st. address, was arrested, as were two men from Illinois.

A subsequent search of the vehicle turned up about eight pounds of hashish, worth several thousand dollars on the illegal market.

Charges of possession of hashish, possession of hashish for sale, and transportation of hashish were then added.

79-Year Old Man Is Robbery Victim

A 79-year old Lemon Grove man was the victim of strong-arm robbery last week as he was entering his home on Cypress st.

The victim reported that he had just returned home from a supermarket by taxi after cashing his social security check and purchasing some groceries when the attack occurred.

He was on the porch of his residence when his assailant reportedly hit him in the eye with his fist, took his wallet containing about $160 in cash, and fled on foot.

The suspect was about 5-10 and weighed about 180 pounds, the victim said.

Discussion Of Park Plan On Tap Tonight

Proponents of the proposed 6-acre park for Lemon Grove are expected to be out in force at tonight's meeting of the Lemon Grove Planning Association executive committee, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium at Golden Avenue School.

Although notices were sent out earlier by the county indicating that the meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m., those notices were incorrect, and the meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., as indicated in a schedule of meetings published last March.

The main item on the agenda will be a presentation by Local Agency Formation Commission staff members Peter Detwiler and S. M. Schmidt, who will ask those in attendance questions about the park.

The park is to be constructed on a matching funds basis, using local money and funds allocated for the project by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In order for the HUD money to be given, a method of achieving local funds must be in operation before the park can be constructed. A county service area has been suggested as the best way to provide local funds for the project.

In order for the service area to be formed, the concept must first be approved by LAFCO and then by the county board of supervisors. A LAFCO hearing was held earlier this month on the service area, but the LAFCO board continued the matter until next month's meeting because of several questions which were not answered and because of the possibility of opposition to the project.

Although no opposition was presented to the board at the hearing, no supporters were present, either, which apparently caused the board to wonder whether or not there was indeed any support.

At tonight's meeting, it is expected that LAFCO staff will question supporters of the measure to determine the feelings of the community toward the project.

It is also probable that the planning association will organize some supporters to attend the January hearing and speak in favor of the plan.

In addition to listening to members of the planning association, Detwiler and Schmidt will answer questions about the service area project.

Planning association chairman Jim Dorman indicated that he hopes for a good turnout for the meeting, but also expressed doubts because many members may still believe that the meeting will be held in the afternoon. The public is invited.

Taxpayer Group Lists Opposition To Valhalla

The East County chapter of the San Diego Taxpayers Association this week renewed its opposition to construction of the Grossmont Union High School District's proposed ninth high school, Valhalla.

The school is scheduled to be constructed from a special tax levied this year, which will be increased next year to provide more funds.

A prepared statement presented to the district board of trustees at a Monday night meeting criticized the administration for "resorting to the use of operating tax override funds to build Valhalla".

The statement also indicated that district will be cutting back programs in existing schools to provide money for the construction of Valhalla.

The opposition was based on the type of school Valhalla will be and on the method through which it will be funded.

Valhalla is planned in an octagonal figuration, which means that it will be more expensive to build, according to its opponents.

"Tacto" is the most direct way to say "touch" in Spanish. This may appear in phrases like "El tacto de esa tela es agradable." (The touch of this material is pleasant.) and "Me gusta el tacto del pasto cuando esta mojado." (I like the touch of grass when it is wet.)

"Nota" may be used idiomatically to express "touch." We may see this in phrases like "Oigo una nota de sarcasmo en su platica." (I hear a touch of sarcasm in his talk.) and "El tiene una nota de buen humor cuando habla." (He has a touch of good humor when he speaks.)

"En contacto" is the way to say "in touch." This may be demonstrated in the phrases "No estoy en contacto con el." (I am not in touch with him.) and "Voy a ponerme en contacto con ella." (I am going to get in touch with her.)

"Pizca" can be used to mean "a touch" when used in referring to small quantities. Thus we may say "A la sopa le falta una pizca de sal." (The soup lacks a touch of salt.) or "Voy a poner una pizca de pi-

"Brochazos" has been used to express "touches" when speaking about painting. This appears in phrases like "Esta mesa necesita unos brochazos." (This table needs a few touches of paint.) and "Vamos a poner unos brochazos de pintura al marco." (We are going to put a touch of paint on the frame.)

"Toque" is a command form for "touch." This permits us to say "No toque la pintura." (Don't touch the paint.) and "Toque mi mano." (Touch my hand.)

Marijuana Possession Charged In Arrest

A Spring Valley youth was charged with possession of marijuana last week after Sheriff's Department deputies arrested him and two companions on charges of breaking the county curfew law.

According to reports from the Sheriff's Department, Andy I. Anderson, 17, of 1569 Tarleton st., Spring Valley, was taken into custody shortly before 1 a.m. last Tuesday morning.

The arrests took place after deputies observed the vehicle and its youthful occupants and pulled it over. After learning that all three subjects were under 18 years of age, they were arrested and searched.

Reportedly found in Anderson's shirt pocket were two hand-rolled cigarettes containing a substance which later proved to be marijuana.

On Wednesday in the auditorium, the fourth, fifth and sixth grade chorus and actors presented Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol." The cast consisted of Shannon Thomas Performed daily Wednesday through Sunday, preceding the well-known "Shamu Goes Hollywood" and "Dolphin Legion" shows, the new acts were introduced Sept. 30 at Sea World as an addition to the six shows and 19 marine exhibits offered for one admission price.

"The Great Northwest Logger Show," with all the robust excitement of traditional northwest competitions of speed and skill performed by professional loggers, features beat-the-clock competition climbs up an 80-foot pole — with new records set almost daily. AUTO CRASH — Nobody was seriously hurt in an automobile accident last Thursday afternoon at Central and Massachusetts in Lemon Grove, but two cars were wrecked and a house was damaged. The accident, which occurred at about 3:30 p.m., happened when the vehicle in the photo, driven by John E. Cleary, 79, of 7682 Central, Lemon Grove was apparently making a left turn on Central from Massachusetts. The car was hit by a second vehicle, driven by Patricia Slonina, 45, of Lakeside. The Cleary car then crashed into the house at 3015 Massachusetts, occupied by Helen Medeiros. The house sustained damage to a wall, although not severe.

Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. Adelizzi Co-Chairmen of Mother's March

"Children are the flowers of the future and instinct impels us to protect that future, to culture those flowers and to shield them from seen and unseen threats to their healthy development," according to Mrs. Percy M. Goodwin of San Diego, after accepting the co-chairmanship of the Mothers March campaign during the January March of Dimes drive.

Mrs. Goodwin will be joined by Mrs. Robert F. Adelizzi, also of San Diego, in a San Diego-Imperial fund-raising program that will involve thousands of mothers who will join hands in the fight against birth defects.

"Many mothers ask the question: 'Why did it happen to us?' when disease strikes a newborn child," said Mrs. Goodwin, who is the mother of four healthy children. "What can I do to help?" is a question every mother ought to ask herself," she added. "Taking part in the March of Dimes drive against birth defects is a significant way. We need volunteers for the Mothers March on January 31."

Two Games On Tap For Aztec Hoopsters

San Diego State University will shoot for basketball wins three and four of the early season when the Aztecs host Portland State University on Friday and nationally-ranked Oral Roberts University on Saturday. Both games are in the San Diego Sports Arena and game time is 8:05 p.m.

Portland State is 2-3 on the season and finished third in the Daffodil Classic over the weekend. The Vikings dropped a Friday game to Cal State Long Beach 102-66, but rebounded to stop Montana 76-74 in overtime.

The Vikings are loaded with California players and are paced by 6-7 forward Leo Franz. Franz is one of four returning lettermen from last year's 19-8 team. He averaged 13.0 last season. Glen Perica, a 6-8 center from Pierce College, averaged 6-7 last year and is a starter again this year.

Pier To Be Repaired

The San Diego Navy Public Works Center is scheduled to start work in the near future on refurbishing the Naval Reserve Training Pier near the Admiral Kidd Club.

The pier was constructed in World War II with some reconstruction and modification in 1959. Since that time, timber piling, including fender support piling, has deteriorated from a combined cause of sea action and marine organism activity.

Wear and tear involving Navy ships using the pier has added to the problem.

Choral Club Offers Annual Holiday Concert

The San Diego Choral Club, directed by Jeanne Roodhouse and accompanied by Valerie Maschner, will present its 34th annual Christmas Concert December 16 at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall at San Diego State College.

The repertoire of Christmas music will include such favorites as Harry Simeone's arrangement of "Go Tell It On The Mountain"; "Fum, Fum, Fum", a Spanish carol arranged by Theron Kirk; Peter J. Wilhousky's "Carol of the Bells"; "The Twelve Days of Christmas" arranged by W. A. Goldsworthy; and a rendition of "Sleigh Ride" arranged by Michael Edwards.

One of the highlights of the concert will be Willy Richter's Short Christmas Cantata for Women's Voices — "The Birth of Christ" — with soprano solo sung by Mrs. Eleazar Mendoza and contralto solo sung by Mrs. Byron McKinney.

Also included in the program will be the new "Christmas Day is Comin'" by Eugene R. Rocherolle.

Other solos will be sung by Mrs. Jon Campbell, Mrs. David Barclay, and Mrs. Marvin Gunnels.

There is no admission charge, but donation for the Inez Davenport Vocal Scholarship Fund will be accepted at the concert. Each year the Choral Club presents a scholarship to a deserving voice student.

The public is invited to attend.

Christmas Party Held

The Spring Valley Woman's Club held its annual Christmas party Wednesday afternoon in conjunction with the regular monthly meeting at Memory Lane Center.

Included in the program for the affair was music provided by the Spring Valley Junior High School Choir. Tommy Thomas was also on hand, playing the role of Santa Claus.

'Nutcracker' And 'La Sylphide' Form Holiday Double Feature

The joys and delights of Christmas past and future will come alive once again when "Mr. Drosselmeyer" creates his magical "Nutcracker" in the harlequin suit as a special treat for his favorite god-children, "Clara and Freddy", and then adds dancing dolls and bears, mice, monkeys, sugar plum fairies and a host of others for a truly festive time.

This wonderful Christmas party, half of a holiday double feature, will be danced by the San Diego Ballet Company at Civic Theatre Dec. 29 and 30, at 8 p.m. both evenings plus a Saturday matinee at 2:30 p.m. The other half of the evening is the ballet "La Sylphide", set in a doughty old castle in the wild highlands of Scotland, and peopled with wicked witches, lusty dancing revelers, brawny woodsmen, delectable damsels and star-crossed lovers.

Jilliana and Thor Sutowski are the "Nutcracker's" Sugar Plum Fairy and her Cavalier. Kirsten Simone and Sutowski dance the roles of Sylph and James in "La Sylphide." Miss Simone, prima ballerina of the Royal Danish Ballet, returns to San Diego after an absence of seven years.

The three internationally-famed dancers will perform with a full corps de ballet, handsome sets and costumes, and with the beautiful scores of Tchaikovsky and Loven-skjold played by a symphony orchestra under the baton of Robert Emile, with technical direction by Bruce Kelley.

Tickets are on sale at Civic Theatre Box Office and all Metro agencies, Highlanders and Sears' stores, for all performances. Matinee tickets are half-price for students, military and senior citizens. Special group and family rates are available by contacting Dave Thompson at the Ballet Office, 295-4161.

Christmas Program Set By Avondale Students

The story of "Christmas In Many Lands" will be told in song and narration by students of Avondale Elementary School this evening at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Parents and friends are invited. If they prefer, they may attend a 9:30 a.m. assembly that morning instead.

Featured will be a 70-voice chorus directed by Mrs. Janie Ganderup. Accompanist is Mrs. Charles C. Harrison. Narrators and decorations will be provided by each of the intermediate grade classes.

Babe Ruth wore a number 3 on his baseball uniform.

St. Nick Due At Convalescent Home Tomorrow

If a ruckus is heard on the roof tomorrow afternoon at Madison Convalescent Home, it won't be because the roof is leaking. Santa will be coming down the chimney!

The Associated Students of Grossmont College and the Office of Community Service are sponsoring a party for residents of the Madison Convalescent Home, 1391 E. Madison st., El Cajon and they will be raising the roof with song and Christmas spirit.

Students will visit the home this week to "spruce" up the place with Christmas decorations, boughs, lights and holiday glitter to make the season brighter for the 92 residents at the home. All the festivities for the holiday party were planned by student committees with funds for the event coming from donations and the Office of Community Services. Cookies and punch will be served as well as diabetic refreshments for those who cannot partake of the regular fare. Individual gifts are being planned for everyone and "Santa's Elves" have pitched in on the entertainment.

Dan Abbott, a Grossmont College forensic student, will give a portion of his "An Evening with Mark Twain" presentation, white suit and all. A magician, carolers and a guitarist will add to the festive occasion. And, of course, Jolly Old St. Nick himself will be there to make the day complete.

With Terry Volz, assistant to the dean of student activities; Eugene Farrar, dean of community services and student Barbara Fish, vice president of international affairs for ASGC, spearheading the committees, the students expect to skate through the party with ease.

Anyone wishing to help with the party or make a donation for the event should contact the Office of Community Services at Grossmont College.

Santas Mark Start Of VOA Holiday Appeal

The reappearance of the familiar "Sidewalk Santas" of the Volunteers of America on local streets signaled the start of the national social welfare organization's annual Christmas campaign appeal.

Funds collected by the Santas, in their red chimneys, as well as checks mailed to the San Diego Headquarters, will be used to provide free dinners and other holiday assistance to the needy, as well as to support the numerous and continuing welfare programs of the VOA.

Thanks to contributions from the public, more than 44,000 persons were helped last year, according to Major Edward J. Fookes, Executive Officer of the local VOA Post. This included a variety of relief, clothing and food packages, provided to needy men, women and children in the community.

Gifts Sought For Hillcrest Youngsters

The staff at Hillcrest Receiving Home, a unit of the San Diego County Probation Department, and Volunteers-in-Probation go all out to make the holiday season as happy as possible for the children who are there over Christmas.

Superintendent Bob Skidmore said that being confined in an institution during the gala period somehow detracts from the spirit of the time, though.

Skidmore said that the County and many organizations and volunteers look after the basic needs of the children, but that any extra gift proves to them that the community does care. Always in need of discarded but good clothing, toys or other items suitable for gifts are always in short supply over Christmas, too.

Hillcrest provides a temporary home for children one week to 18 years old who have no other place to go. They are the innocent victims of life's tragedies, according to Skidmore.

Donations of Christmas gifts, clothing, or money are accepted at Hillcrest at any hour of the night or day.

Trees Donated To Animal Park

Several hundred pine trees have been donated to the San Diego Wild Animal Park by John Burnham and Co. as a result of a reception the company staged.

The local insurance and real estate firm threw a party recently to show off newly remodeled quarters at its Sixth and Cedar location in San Diego. But in addition to holding the customary open house, Burnham also added to its long series of tree donations to the community.

All of the 500 invited guests at the Burnham reception had the option of receiving a seedling as a gift, or of having one donated in their name to the Wild Animal Park in the San Pasqual Valley. A spokesman for the company said that most of the guests donated the trees to the Wild Animal Park. The pines, of several different varieties, will be planted at various locations in the 1800-acre preserve and will be a welcome addition, according to Park horticulturist Jim Gibbons.

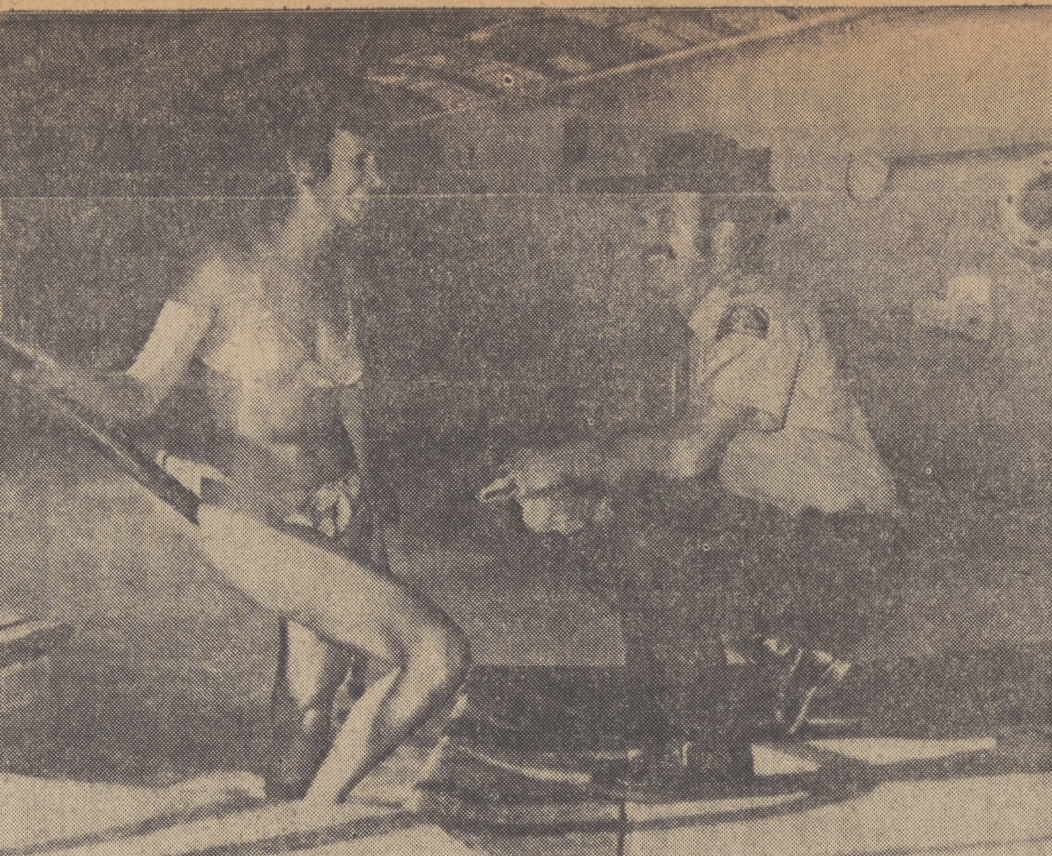

The Burnham policy of donating trees started about a dozen years ago and has included gifts to the UC San Diego campus, Ocean View Park, and a newly-widened stretch of 70th st. in La Mesa.

Junior High Youngsters Seek Holiday Work Through Job Bank

You can't tell the Job Bank people at Lemon Grove Junior High that 13-15 year-old youngsters have no ambition. Job Bank has a bona fide list of young job-seekers to back up their viewpoint.

These youngsters have listed more than 20 categories of part-time work they are willing to perform — if you'll let them know you want them.

These 100-plus youngsters have filed job applications and have the permission of their parents to perform jobs ranging from yard work, housework and baby-sitting to tutoring, typing and gift-wrapping.

What's more, it'll only cost the employer $1 an hour.

The Job Bank, by which these youngsters will attempt to reach employers through the co-operation of at least one local business firm, is the brain-child of Barry Bernasconi and Fran Oldsen, two graduate social workers doing their internship for social workers' credentials. They work at the L.G. Junior High two days a week and receive no pay.

Several weeks ago they opened a Student Information Center at the school after training student volunteers to answer questions. The Center, open at lunch hours, fields questions pertaining to school and personal matters. Bernasconi and Oldsen provided the follow-through so that the feedback to the student wasn't lost in the routine of the day's work.

Some of the questions indicated that a need for paying jobs rated a high priority. So the team developed the Job Bank concept. Much of the publicity is being transmitted through PTA letters and circulars delivered by students to neighbors near where they live. Job Bank accepts the idea that a youngster might not work at home, pay or not. But he would work, and work conscientiously, for strangers. Since it had never been attempted before at junior high level, every step was new. They got the approval of Principal Louis Poluzzi, and set out to find a business firm that would agree to be headquarters for the Job Bank. Some one had to answer phone calls and connect the job with the student's ability, and look after other "employment agency" details. The school would be closed during the initial phase of the project — so the school office couldn't be used. And even if it were, it would be closed on Saturday — the day which promises to be the busiest one of the week for employment seekers.

But they found such a place right in the middle of Lemon Grove's business district. The location answered all of the project's needs.

Here's How It Works
Vince Baruchchi and Bill Vandenberg, co-owners of Dutch Dry Cleaners, 7870 Broadway in Lemon Grove, agreed to turn over their front counter to the project.

There, they will keep a list of youngsters' names and telephone numbers, together with their work specialty.

Residents seeking part-time help will call Dutch Cleaners at 466-4145 between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. and indicate the type of work they want performed. The clerk has a chart with the youngsters listed by "profession" — three to fifteen of them in some of the categories. This gives the employer a wide choice.

The clerk takes the employer's phone number and passes it on to the young worker, who, in turn, calls the employer to arrange his working hours and to get his address. The $1 an hour fee is standard throughout.

Each youngster has filed an application in which skills are listed.

Alfred Roach, 13, says he plays the saxophone and drums, will fix bike gears, wash cars, baby sit and take scores for bowling.

Celeste Northrop, 12, says she can exercise and work horses; groom dogs and horses and take care of cats, rabbits and canaries.

Walt Wolman, 13, lists his skills as small machinery, woodworking, gardening, ditch digging and animal sitting.

Robbie Douthit, 13, claims he can do minor auto body work.

Kathy Eiring, 13, says she is an experienced gift wrapper and so is Dawn Frazier also 13. Both young ladies said that they have done gift-wrapping before.

It is interesting to note some of the reasons the youngsters give for wanting jobs.

"I need money for Christmas presents for my family," said one.

"I need experience," "To help my Mom out," "To take up my free time," were other reasons. One, on a note of pathos, said, "My parents can't afford to buy a tree and have a good Christmas dinner, too. We have a big family. I want to help buy the Christmas tree."

You can't beat that for being motivated!

All Kinds of Skills

Here are some of the skills listed by the youthful job-seekers.

Baby-sitting, animal care, window washing, acting, yard work, house work, tutoring, cafeteria work, handyman, dairy work, office work, typing, drawing, house painting, newspaper delivery, car washing, garage cleaning, and welding.

So now all that is needed is for the first employer to call 466-4145 and the Job Bank operation will be on its way.

If there is some question about the project's operation, employers may call the clerk.

CAR WASH

In a separate project, students of the Lemon Grove Junior High school will conduct a public car wash at the Gulf Station, Broadway and Buena Vista, Saturday.

The charge will be $1 for each car between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

It is sponsored by the school's social work unit.

County's Desert Parks Draw Winter Campers

"The term 'off-season' doesn't really apply to camping in San Diego County," said Director of Parks and Recreation Lloyd T. Lowrey.

"With the advent of cooler weather, only the hardiest go to our mountain parks. Except for occasional nice days, the beach parks are usually on the chilly side, too," he continued, "but we still have our two desert parks, where the temperature says in the mid-70's and higher all winter long."

Lowrey explained that recreational vehicles, with their "creature comforts," are sending Southland families far afield in search of respite from urban irritants. The once forbidding desert has been tamed for camping by the RV's with their self-contained water, air-conditioning, sewage holding tanks, and refrigerators. The stark wasteland of the Anza-Borrego Desert portion of eastern San Diego County is now where winter sun-seekers play.

Agua Caliente Spring County Park and Vallecito County Park offer two oases for those with or without fancy recreational vehicles. Here, tents, luxurious motor homes, or anything in between, give a chance to see ever-changing panoramas of desert mountains as the sun moves across the sky. Transitory glimpses of shy wildlife and a peaceful relaxation seldom found elsewhere are among the attractions of the area, according to Lowrey.

Indians first used Agua Caliente as a campground centuries before the white man arrived. Pottery shards have been found throughout the site. San Diego County's small-scale answer to Yellowstone geothermal activity provides the heat source for sulphur springs long sought out as therapeutic panaceas for the ailing. With its 104-degree indoor Jacuzzi-equipped pool, the spa is still offering relief for a variety of maladies, especially to the elderly. Outdoor wading pools invite all ages to luxuriate in their 96-degree warmth.

Lowrey contends that the region is most appealing to wildlife students, youngsters who love to roam, and aficionados of Indian lore. Quail, rabbits, coyotes, bobcats, raccoons, foxes, and antelope ground squirrels abound in the park, which is also rich in birds due to its being on the migratory route for birds wintering in Central America. Willow, tamarisk, and mesquite trees make up the majority of the larger flora along with desert shrubs and cactus.

A charge of $4 per camping unit allows a hook-up of water, electricity, and sewer, but for San Diego County residents, a discount card is available for $5 per year that allows a 50 cent per day discount. Reservations are not available at present and Lowrey cautioned that the nearest phone is at Ocotillo, 25 miles away. Emergencies are handled via the County's radio communication system.

Included in the park facilities are a general store, gas station, airstrip, and post office. Trailer storage and rentals are available nearby. The indoor therapeutic pool is open to persons 16 or older from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. every day except Tuesday. Hair nets are required for long hair. No pets are allowed in the park, which has spaces for 112 trailers and 42 tents.

Just four and a half miles to the northeast of Agua Caliente is historic Vallecito, with its restoration of the 1850's Birch and Butterfield stagecoach station. Built of salt grass sod, after the fashion of the original house built by James R. Lassator, the restoration was done in 1934. Soon to contain the valuable and unique Strahlmann Collection of early-day Colorado Desert and stagecoach relics, the station is now empty, but open for visitors.

The elevation at Vallecito is 1,500 feet with 30 tent sites, 50 tent or trailer sites without hook ups, and two youth camping areas plus a caravan area. The one restroom at the 71-acre park does not have showers.

Because of the relative primitiveness of the park, the fee for camping is only $2 per day. Pets on leashes are permitted.

Reservations are not taken and visitors are on a first-come, first-served basis. Due to the heat of summer and the lack of a water-oriented gathering spot such as the pools at Agua Caliente, Vallecito closes from mid-June to early October. If demand calls for it, Lowrey said that the park will remain open the year 'round in the future.

"These spots out in the little-known desert of our County are two of the best gems in our string of County parks," reported Lowrey. "Hiking trails; mineral springs; steeped in the history of the early West — coupled with an ideal winter-time climate, Agua Caliente and Vallecito County Parks draw campers from all over the County."

"The rangers who staff the parks are all knowledgeable in the history and ecology of the region and are always more than willing to share their knowledge with visitors," he concluded.

Youth Center Reorganization Key To New Year Re-opening

The Lemon Grove Youth Center is being shut down for the holidays and may not re-open unless both physical and financial help makes it possible, according to the report from the Center's board of directors.

There has been activity by several local residents to find means of keeping the facility open — but the results of their effort is not yet known.

The Center has been the meeting place for young teenagers who have little other choice — except to congregate on the streets, according to Dale Woods, paid director of the Center.

The Center has attracted 70-80 youngsters each Friday and Saturday to play ping pong, toss basketballs, listen to music and watch television — and to talk.

Most of the youngsters are from broken homes or homes where both parents are working. There is no other outlet for their energies on Friday and Saturday.

The Center has provided counseling to hundreds of youngsters and has found jobs for a number of them. Part time jobs and frequent car wash projects have provided money for some field trips to the mountains and to the beach, Wood said.

Recently, baseball games have been played against the sheriff's department's local office personnel. More games are planned. A recent field trip took the youngsters to the airport where they visited with members of the sheriff's helicopter patrol.

Meanwhile, funds are continuing to be collected through new subscriptions to this newspaper with 50 cents for each one being channeled to the Center through its board of directors. Such funds help defray obligations already incurred. This week's list:

Water Movie Available For Loan To Clubs

"People and Water," a new color motion picture produced by the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, is available for loan to clubs, service groups, schools and other interested organizations from the San Diego County Water Authority.

According to Harry Griffen, of Lemon Grove, the Water Authority's Public Education and Information Committee chairman, Helix Water District board chairman and an MWD director, the 16mm film emphasizes the needs of people in Southern California for water from the Colorado River and from northern California to support the economy of their region and help maintain attractive community environments.

During its 25-minute run, the film also relates the benefits of flood control and water conservation on the rivers and streams of the state, and reports what the future might hold in desalting ocean and geothermal brine.

"To obtain a print of 'People and Water,'" Griffen said, "contact the San Diego County Water Authority, 2750 Fourth ave., San Diego 92103, or call 297-3218. You may also contact your local water agency to obtain a print."

Also available is a motion picture on the history and operation of the Colorado River Aqueduct called "Billion Gallons a Day." Programs featuring slides are another service provided for interested groups.

Matador Hoop Squad Tops Aztecs, Colts

Not expected to be among the league leaders this season were the Mt. Miguel Matadors, but the team has now won three games without tasting defeat.

The Matadors, under the first-year reign of Coach Bob Holm, have proven to be the Grossmont League's second winningest basketball team, with only rugged Helix Highlanders owning more victories.

In last week's action, the Miguel bucket brigade showed an excellent defense against Montgomery on Tuesday, then showed a balanced scoring attack while whipping Crawford on Friday night.

Against Montgomery, the Matadors opened slowly, taking a four point lead into the second period and a 10-point margin into the second half. The local team edged away despite poor shooting and some turnovers by forcing the Aztecs to shoot from outside.

In the third stanza, Miguel played about evenly with the Aztecs, who finally solved the Miguel zone defense in the last quarter. Trailing at times by as much as 16 points, Montgomery began hitting outside shots while holding Mt. Miguel to only one shot from the floor in the last quarter.

The Montgomery defense was a little too tight, however, resulting in foul shots for the Matadors, who cashed in ten times in the final stanza to claim an eight-point win.

Lucky to remain undefeated after such poor shooting, Mt. Miguel looked a lot better Friday night against Crawford, despite an abundance of turnovers in the first half.

As the contest opened, the Matadors came out shooting, claiming a singlepoint lead over the surprisingly hot Colts. In the second quarter, Mt. Miguel continued to scorch the nets, but the Colts couldn't keep up the pace against a good zone defense and fell behind by seven at halftime, 31-24.

The Colts came out strong in the third period and narrowed the gap, but a Mt. Miguel rally in the final quarter put the game out of reach.

The game marked a much-needed improvement in Mt. Miguel's bench strength.

Without an over-powering first string, Mt. Miguel is forced to play a zone-press defense, which is tiring to the first-stringers, meaning that the team subs get more action. The press is also tiring to opponents, who must utilize lower stringers more than usual.

The Matadors were led in both games last week by Mark Dobransky, who tossed in 17 markers against the Aztecs and 18 against the Colts.

Mt. Miguel will play at Mission Bay tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m.

Aztec Football Tickets Ready

Football season tickets are now on sale for the 1973 San Diego State football season.

The Aztecs will play seven home games at San Diego Stadium and four away. "This is the earliest we have ever started our season ticket sale," according to Athletic Director Ken Starr, "but since the Iowa State game we have had quite a few inquiries."

Season ticket orders are available by writing: Aztec Tickets, San Diego State, San Diego 92115 or by phone 286-6947.

San Diego State next season will tackle its most attractive and toughest schedule ever.

Home games:

Sept. 29 Kent State; Oct. 6 Houston; Oct. 13 New Mexico State; Oct. 27 Florida State; Nov. 10 Long Beach State; Nov. 24 North Texas State; and Dec. 1 Iowa State.

Gulls Longest Trip Ends For Christmas—Barely

Dallas, Ft. Worth, Omaha, Tulsa, Denver, Salt Lake City. Those are the stops the San Diego Gulls will be making as the club travels on the longest road trip of the season before returning home to the Sports Arena on December 23.

The Gulls will spend five days, through December 16 in the Midwest, playing the four CHL clubs. The following week San Diego will be in Denver on December 20 and Salt Lake on the 21st.

Then it will be back to the San Diego Sports Arena on Saturday, December 23 when the Gulls will face the Omaha Knights of the Central Hockey League. The following Wednesday, the 27th, Salt Lake will return to Arena ice to meet San Diego.

As the Gulls head out on the rugged road trip, they are leaving behind the successful confines of home ice and will be facing the disadvantage of playing on the foreign rinks. At home, it is all San Diego. The Gulls have played 14 home games already this season and have a record of 10-2-2. San Diego has outscored the opposition 51 to 31 at home.

The Gulls started off fast at home when they were unbeaten in their first six Arena appearances, winning 5 and tying only once. Phoenix and Denver broke the streak when San Diego lost two in-a-row at home. But since that second loss to Denver on November 17, the Gulls are unbeaten in their last six contests at the Arena.

On another statistical front, the Gulls have now scored the first goal of the game in 15 of the first 23 games. When the Gulls have scored that all important first goal, they have won 11 of the 15 games. Overall San Diego is 11-2-2 when they have tallied first.

Fine Arts Gallery Gets $175,000 Contribution

An unsolicited gift of $175,000 has been presented to the Fine Arts Gallery of San Diego, it was announced recently by Philip L. Gildred, President of the Fine Arts Society.

The gift was made by Mr. and Mrs. Rea A. Axline, who recently became members of the Society. Mr. and Mrs. Axline, who visited the Gallery several years ago, were impressed by it and the community and are considering relocating in San Diego from their present home on Long Island.

Hoop Tourney On Tap

A freshman and sophomore basketball tournament has been scheduled for Monday and Tuesday at Mt. Miguel High School, according to John Burwell, frosh basketball coach and director of the tourney.

The tournament is an invitational affair, involving freshman and sophomore teams from Mt. Miguel, Montgomery, University and Saint Augustine.

Games will be played at 5:30 and 7 p.m. each night. Admission is 50 cents per persons.

HIGH STEPPER — Mt. Miguel High School center Gary Klusman invented a new dance — it just appears that way sometimes when he goes after the ball. Klusman and his Matador teammates have been doing some pretty good basketball playing the past two weeks and have yet to be defeated. Action was in last week's victory over Montgomery. MV Cagers Claim First Win of Year

Monte Vista High School, after three straight losses, finally put it all together last Friday night with a big 68-45 victory over Castle Park.

The Monarchs played excellent defensive ball and added some scoring punch that had been absent in earlier games to romp the Trojans and even their week's record at 1-1.

Last Tuesday, the team dropped a poorly-played contest to Patrick Henry, 64-36.

In the Henry game, the Monarchs came out cold, and trailed 35-16 after the first half. After brief glimpses of steady play in the third period, the team collapsed in the final stanza.

Although the game was a flop, one bright spot was noticed. Rick Baker, who suffered from extremely cold shooting in the Monarchs' first two games, came alive to tally 11 points — high for the team.

On Friday, the Monarchs were ready for Castle Park and Baker was ready to live up to his pre-season potential. As the game opened, both teams came out with mistakes and neither side could find the basket. Monte Vista led, 8-4, after the first quarter.

In the second period, Rich Ridgway and Rick Baker came alive and lit up the scoreboard with outside shots. When the dust cleared at halftime, the Monarchs had a commanding 31-15 lead.

In the third quarter, the teams were about even, but Monte Vista came on strong in the final quarter to draw away for the victory.

Ridgway finished with 19 points, while Baker collected 16.

AARP Meeting Set

Heartland Chapter No. 1140, American Association of Retired Persons, will hold a meeting December 15 at 1 p.m. at the Sear's Community Room, 575 Fletcher Parkway, El Cajon.

The meeting will be a Christmas party. There will be a "white elephant" gift exchange.

Matador Mat Squad Claims Invitational

The competition wasn't the stiffest they'll face this season, but Mt. Miguel High School's wrestlers took first place in their own tournament last Friday afternoon.

The Mt. Miguel Invitational, this year featuring out-of-town school Fountain Valley, was the toughest ever of the young tournament, but not quite in the same caliber as tournaments expected over the holiday vacation period.

Mt. Miguel, defending CIF champions, had all it could handle in the tourney, claiming first place with 111 points, just four more than second place Fountain Valley, and eight more than third place Granite Hills.

For Mt. Miguel, which participated for the first time this season with a full strength team, the tournament was the beginning of a long and difficult task of attaining a third straight CIF championship.

Bright spots for the Matadors included five wrestlers in the finals, three of which won weight titles and one of which claimed "Outstanding Wrestler" laurels. Winners for the Matadors were Miguel Cesena in the 127-pound class, who also claimed the tourney's outstanding wrestler award; Chris Palazzolo, in the 165-pound class; and heavyweight Dan Allen, who won his division with a pin in the title bout.

In addition to five wrestlers in the finals, Mt. Miguel placed five men in the semifinals to add points.

The tournament, in addition to providing pre-season competition for local wrestlers, also served as a clue to which teams would be tough in the Grossmont League this season.

Ray (Windmill) White Breezes To Easy Victory at Coliseum

by Max Goodwin

Mayhem was mixed with comedy last week at Knockout Promotion's weekly boxing show at the Coliseum, 15th and E streets.

The opener presaged events to follow when it was bob-tailed to less than one round to accommodate Juan Plata, 131, who was lying prone on the canvass and considered non-combatant from a blow to the lower midriff at 2:57. Al Taylor, 126, inflicted the damage.

In the main go, State Middleweight Champion Ray (Windmill) White, 177, (26-11-2) was both funny and sympathetic in the 10-round battle with Bob Hazelton, 195, (9-4) which ended five seconds short of the seventh round. Hazelton was so obviously outclassed that White used his silly punches at will. The ice tongs (left and right hooks to the head simultaneously); the double whammy (right and left uppercuts simultaneously) and his around-the-tree. In this he swings behind his back to the head of this opponent held firmly under his left arm. His windmill effect and a John L. Sullivan stance brought chuckles to all — except Hazelton.

Hazelton, who plays drums in a band in England, should have stuck to that profession. He was glassy-eyed in three of the six rounds he worked. Both Hal Rickards, the referee, and Vita split Herrera's brow which gushed blood. Dr. Lundeen examined the wound and ordered the fight to con-ee, and the ring doctor, William Lundeen, could have shown better judgment by stopping the fight before Hazelton's second mercifully threw a towel in. At one point, Rickards ordered White, a strong Ventura carpenter, to stop clowning and get on with the kill. White apparently didn't have the heart to further damage the defenseless Englishman. But a $500 purse indicated that he followed orders.

In a six-round return bout, Pete Vita, 134, won a unanimous decision over David Herrera, 136. Early in the fifth round. He should have stopped it then and there as the wound became the target for Vita. Several stitches later were required to close the wound. Herrera had been losing all the way and it was senseless to send him back with one eye filmed with blood, for more damage.

Each of the fighters now have a victory over the other. They have been re-matched — what else?

In another six rounder, Jerry Lafayette, 147, took a split decision over Gonzalo Rodriguez. Both weighed 147.

What was satisfactory to this reporter was the stentorian announcing of ring official Fred Lewis and the boxing expertise of Al Couppee who broadcasts the main go via KOGO radio each Wednesday.

Badgered and Bloodied Q's Await Colonel's Arrival

The San Diego Conquistadors didn't come home with their shields — they came back on their hands.

Somewhat badgered and bloodied after a grueling 11-day road trip which saw the neophyte Qs extend their losing skein to seven straight, (six on the road) the Qs need a couple of wins to refurbish their morale.

If one was in the offering, it was Tuesday, against Alex Hannum's Denver Rockets — who a short time ago were fighting off San Diego's challenge for second place.

The next fray will be Sunday against the Kentucky Colonels — a team the Qs find it harder and harder to defeat.

"Our players are professionals," said Q's coach K. C. Jones, "and they will simply have to turn this thing around."

Zoo Membership Suggested As Gift Possibility

With the Christmas gift-giving season fast approaching, a gift suggestion for puzzled givers was offered last week by Karen Orangutan, a one-year-old resident of the San Diego Children's Zoo.

Karen presented a Zoological Society membership to Hans Conried, star of the Off Broadway Theatre's current production, "Norman, Is That You?" which will end a successful run Sunday.

Karen wasn't able to tell Conried that his membership allows him a year's admission to the Zoo and the San Diego Wild Animal Park; so Ed Lawrence, director of membership and special gifts for the Zoological Society, explained membership benefits to Conried.

Lawrence pointed out that in addition to receiving free admission to the Zoo and the Wild Animal Park — both managed by the Zoological Society — Conried will be supporting the conservation and education efforts of the Society. He'll also receive the Zoo's colorful monthly magazine ZOONOOZ and guest passes which friends may use at either the Zoo or the Wild Animal Park.

"We think a Zoo membership makes an ideal holiday gift," Lawrence said. "The recipient gets the opportunity to visit us at no cost, and at the same time is a participant in our activities."

Sure, we're tired from a long road trip — we're all tired — but we'll all have to just dig in and go a little harder.

"We had a lot of fun in the early part of the season when we were winning," added Kase, "and we've just finished making a lot of other teams happy, but we really haven't played that badly. Our shooting has been off and we've tossed the ball away a few times too many, but most of that can be attributed to the travel weariness."

The 11-day trip saw the Qs fly 6,500 air miles. Into and out of three time zones and into six of the toughest bastions in the ABA — Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Denver and Utah. But now they return to the friendly confines of Peterson Gym where they will face Alex Hannum's Denver Rockets twice in the next four games.

The Qs are looking to the return of Simmie Hill as a means of bolstering their front line strength particularly with Ollie Taylor hampered by a sprained ankle. Guards Chuck Williams and Larry Miller are hopeful that the home arena will bring their dismal shooting performance from the recent road trip to an end, and both Red Robbins and Mike Barrett (both recently off the injured list) look for home cooking as a means of improving their play.

Russian Hockey Team To Play Gulls Jan. 8

The Russian National Champion hockey team is coming to San Diego Jan. 3 to play the San Diego Gulls at the Sports Arena.

Three other Western Hockey League teams will be engaged by the Russians while they are in the United States to play in the World Cup Hockey Tournament at Denver December 27 and Minneapolis December 31.

Other dates and places are: Russia vs. Seattle Totems, Dec. 25 vs. Phoenix Roadrunners, Dec. 27 vs. Portland Buckaroos, Jan. 6

Tickets may be reserved for the January 3 game at the Gulls office at the Arena.

Each of the fighters now have a victory over the other. They have been re-matched — what else?

In another six rounder, Jerry Lafayette, 147, took a split decision over Gonzalo Rodriguez. Both weighed 147.

What was satisfactory to this reporter was the stentorian announcing of ring official Fred Lewis and the boxing expertise of Al Couppee who broadcasts the main go via KOGO radio each Wednesday.

USD Grid Season Ends With Eight School Records

Halfback Sammy Croom broke eight school records to pace a 1972 University of San Diego football team which concluded its season with a 6-3-1 won-lost-tied reading.

Competing in their first college division grid action since 1961, the Toreros won four and tied one in their last five games to wind up a highly successful campaign on a winning note.

Overall, USD established 34 school marks and tied seven others to quiet critics who had maintained the school could not even field a team this year because of the spiraling cost of athletics. The football program was operated as a non-profit corporation, all fundraising was done within its board of directors and no financial aid was received from the University.

Croom, a 6-2, 190-pound sophomore runner, posted standards of single game carries (29), season carries (191), single game rushing yardage (271), season rushing yardage (271), season rushing yardage (1177), total offense single game yardage (332) and season (1361), longest run from scrimmage (99 yards) and season rushing average (6.2 yards per carry). He tied marks of three touchdowns in one game and 11 for the season.

Head coach Andy Vinci is finalizing an 11-game 1973 schedule and will have a strong nucleus of returnees upon which to build their hopes.

Gala On Tap

While the election of officers and directors for 1973 will be the principal item on the agenda, the San Diego County Fish and Game Association's annual meeting scheduled to night at 7:30 in the Balboa Park War Memorial Building at least will be different.

This time the affair will be labeled Election and Christmas Party, and the latter will steal some of the thunder from the election, which finds Bill Pritzl and Chuck Walker seeking the presidency.

All members have been asked to bring wrapped sporting items of at least $2 value which have been salvaged from their tackle boxes or hunting kits but no longer used.

While waiting for the votes to be counted, "wholesale swapping" of gifts will take place and a lively evening is expected, according to Carl Dustin, who will serve as coordinator.

In addition, a reproduction of the famous Ducks Unlimited portrait "Green Wing Teal" donated by Bill Elser will be given away, along with other awards which include a shotgun and case of shells.

Chargers To Wrap Up Season Here Sunday

There will be only two complimentary tickets to the meeting of the 1,000-Yard Club at San Diego Stadium Sunday. Mike Garrett has pass No. 1,026; Franco Harris No. 1,021. San Diego's Super Scooter, Garrett will duel with Harris, commander of "Franco's Italian Army" from Pittsburgh, when the Chargers (4-8-1) tangle with the sensational Steelers (10-3). Final game for San Diego starts at 1 p.m.

A crowd of more than 50,000 will watch Pittsburgh, coached by former Charger defensive coach Chuck Noll, attempt to capture its first title in 40 years. The Steelers need to win. Combination of a Steelers loss and victory by Cleveland (9-4) over the New York Jets would give the Browns the AFC Central title because they would have a better record within that division.

San Diego, meanwhile, has to win to avert the possibility of dropping behind Denver (4-9) into last place in the AFC West. The Broncos play host to the New England Patriots Sunday after trouncing the Chargers, 38-13, at freezing Mile High Stadium last week.

To prepare for the Chargers, Pittsburgh is practicing this week at Palm Springs, the plush desert spa where Frank Sinatra was the best-known Italian and Sammy Davis the best-known Black before the arrival of Franco Harris, who is half-Italian and half-Black.

Leading candidate for "Rookie of the Year," Harris needs 85 yards Sunday to break the NFL rookie rushing record of 1,015 set by John Brockington of Green Bay in 1971.

The 6-foot-2½, 230-pound No. 1 draft choice from Penn State became the fifth NFL rookie to run for more than 1,000 yards Sunday even though his streak of succes-

Boosters Get Boost In Quest For Pool

The Monte Vista High School boosters club got a boost in its efforts to have a swimming pool built on the local campus when the Grossmont Union High School District Board of Trustees voted to assure the club $25,000 toward the project.

The pool will cost $160,000. Although the boosters were happy to hear that the money would be allocated, they didn't get everything they sought.

The boosters asked that the school district provide $8,000 per year toward payments of the pool, which will run about $22,000. The board balked at that idea, indicating that it is the community's responsibility to provide recreational facilities near the school.

It is possible that the board may re-consider the matter after the group talks to the

LG School District Maintenance Department Re-Vamp Approved

The Lemon Grove School District Board of Trustees met Tuesday night and approved a resolution on goal setting for the district, heard a report on the proposed warehouse, approved re-organization of the maintenance department, and heard a report on subdivisions.

Goal setting in the district has been for the most part handled by citizens advisory groups at each school, with results considered by the administration and the board of trustees.

The citizens committees have been made up mostly of professional people of the district and parents of students. The new resolution calls for involving more district employees in the process, including teachers and classified employees.

Paul Reynolds, assistant superintendent for business services, reported to the board on work on the district's warehouse which is now under construction.

Reynolds said that ground preparation had been completed before recent rains put a halt to work. Construction was underway again this week with completion due soon.

Re-organization of the districts maintenance department was mandated by the upcoming retirement of George Dickinson, who will leave the district in February.

New assignments and job description revisions were given to Art Brown, who will become head bus driver; Art Chapin, who will be a bus viceman/driver; and Gerald Heath, who will become assistant foreman of buildings and grounds.

It was noted that no replace-

C.A.C. Election Winners Named

Twenty persons were elected to serve on the Mt. Miguel Citizens' Advisory Council in a "general election" held community-wide last week.

These people will work with administration and teachers in planning educational programs responsive to the community's needs, according to Dr. R. L. Pyle, principal.

An organizational meeting was held last night at the school.

Those elected from Lemon Grove are:

Mmes. Leona Bowersox, Lois Heiserman, Gurney Hogard, Bennie O'Brien and Kenneth Tibbets. Also Messrs. Frank Bell, Ben Duea, Morey Feldman, Van Ingraham and Don Myers.

From Spring Valley:

Mmes. Lillian Duncan, Evva Emerick and Laurie O'Brien. Also Messrs. Jim Jordan, Robert Dickinson, James McPherson, Frank Shughrue, Robert Slabaugh, Jasper Stacy and Vern Torres.

The election was throughout the Mt. Miguel attendance area. Polling places were at school, fire stations and chambers of commerce.

Two Steal Ford Engine

Two men riding in a late model, dark green Ford 1/2-ton pickup truck were being sought by Sheriff's Deputies this week after the two allegedly stole an engine and transmission from a Spring Valley junkyard.

According to reports from the Sheriff's Department, the suspects came to Spring Valley Auto Wrecking, where they agreed to purchase a 289-cubic inch Ford Falcon engine and transmission.

A mechanic for the junkyard steam-cleaned the engine and loaded it into the suspect pickup truck, then went into the office to write up a sales ticket. During his absence, the suspects drove off without paying for the merchandise.

One suspect was described as a white male, about 40 years old, 5-9 tall and weighing about 175 pounds with black hair. The second suspect was described as about 18 years of age, 5-11 and 170, with blonde hair.

'Snow White' Is Next Jr. Theatre Show

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is the second of four musical shows to highlight the 1972-73 season of the San Diego Junior Theater. The first was "Rumpelstiltskin," which completed a highly successful run recently.

"Cinderella," another delightful fairy tale, and "Bye Bye, Birdie," a teenage favorite, will be presented in the Casa del Prado theater in Balboa Park this spring.

"Snow White" will be presented February 2, 3, 4, 9, 10, 11 and 12. "Cinderella" is scheduled for March 16, 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25. "Bye Bye, Birdie" follows later in the spring on May 11, 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20.

Performance times are 7:30 p.m. on Fridays and 2 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Tickets for students 18 and under are $1. Admission price for adults is $1.50. Block seating for groups of 50 or more is available. Reservations may be made at 239-1311.

ment was hired and that the workload will be distributed among current employees at a savings to the district.

Superintendent Bob Sutton reported to the board on the status of proposed subdivisions in the district. Included in the report was a note on MarArthur Terrace, a development of about 80 units, and Sutton said that the developers have indicated they will sign an agreement with the district to provide facilities if none are available for students resulting from the project.

He also noted that the College Crest Subdivision will be up for consideration next Thursday. The project has been turned down in the past because of density factors.

students. "He can make his bankroll then go back to college," the pro offered. He talked about other things, too. But when Coryell was called on, he was angry. Probably no one had seen him angrier. He obviously was fighting to control himself as he spoke in measured words.

"That's a lie," Coryell said. It was the only time we had heard him utter an expletive. "Kids don't do back to college. After they join a professional team they act like pros and they live like pros—for a while. Most of them are dumped. They don't go back to college. They join the uneducated work force. If they'd leave him alone until he completes college, he'd have that going for him."

His voice was low but his eyes flashed in anger. The 30-40 newsmen present were quiet, too. That was unusual. When Coryell finished there was a burst of applause. It was for Coryell's constancy of character more than anything else.

Then Marv Braden, the head football coach of USIU, and Andy Vinci, USD's new football coach took the floor and testified as to the soundness of Coryell's philosophy. Coryell had changed the tone of the meeting from a sports cross-examination to a lecture on common sense.

To newsmen, it is Coryell who brings a refreshing breath of air into a world that sometimes reeks of the smoke-filled backroom where sports executives wheel and deal.

The fun and games that enthrall the paying customer as athletes compete in the playing arena, often has an undercoating of crassness and greed that is usually ignored by reporters. It is the game, and the winning of same, that fans want to know about.

But it is the young man and his training as he emerges into this competitive world that concerned Coryell.

All of this knowledge must have been seething in Coryell's midriff as he spoke his piece. And he stood taller among giants in the sports world as a result.

SDG&E Pays Tax Installment

The San Diego Gas & Electric Company this week paid $7,287,319 as the first installment on its 1972-73 property taxes in San Diego County.

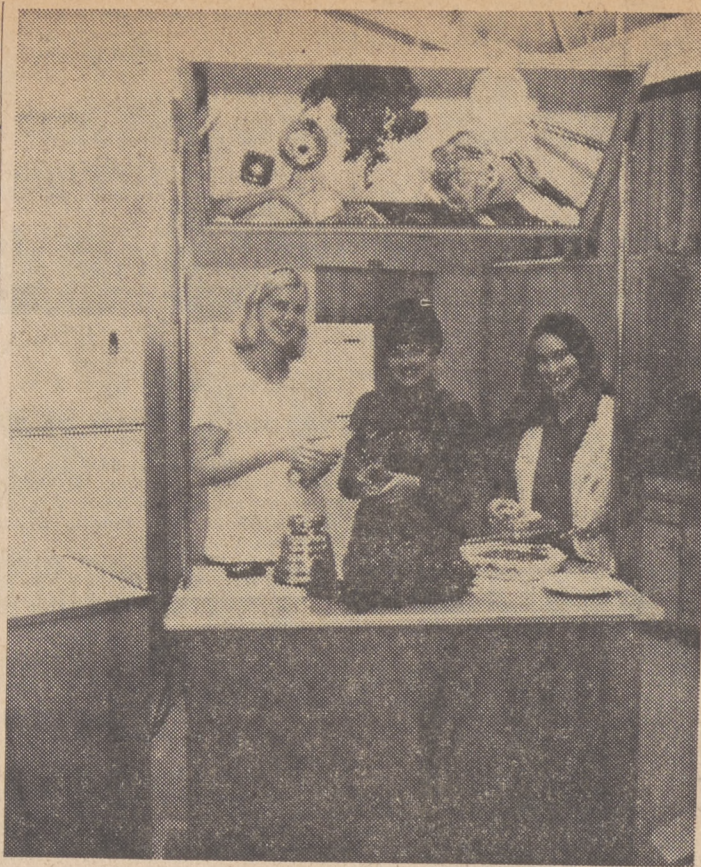

W. B. Johnston, Jr., Vice President-Finance, presented the utility's tax payment check to County Tax Collector James E. Jones. The second installment on the 1972-73 property taxes will be paid in April and will raise the total for the year to $14.6 million.

The tax payments do not include franchise fees which the company pays annually to the county and its incorporate cities. Those payments this year totaled $3,791,000, applicable to 1971.

Money from the property taxes will be apportioned among local taxing bodies in the County, including incorporated cities and towns, school districts and irrigation districts.

Other first installments on the company's property taxes included $2,407 to San Bernardino County, $16,444 to Riverside County, $124,029 to Orange County, and $270 to Imperial County.

DEMONSTRATION — "Christmas in Three Countries" was the title of the foods demonstration program given Wednesday evening at the El Cajon office of the San Diego Gas and Electric Company. Given by seniors of Mrs. Wilma Boggs' Food Demonstration Techniques Class at California State University, San Diego, the program included Christmas recipes and customs from Sweden, Mexico and Germany. Taking part in the demonstration were Marcia Barstow, left, of Spring Valley, Suzie Rice, of Lemon Grove, and Sue Pellegrini, of Spring Valley.

Dear Santa Claus...

Don Keith
Spring Valley

As Christmas draws near, and the post office becomes overburdened with increasing amounts of holiday mail, included in the mail sacks are letters addressed to Santa Claus.

Since it is tremendously difficult for mail carriers to reach the North Pole with the multitude of requests from local children at this time of the year when Santa is all but snowed in, the post office elects to send Santa's letters to this newspaper.

When the letters are printed, a copy of the paper is rushed to Santa so that he has time to complete his Christmas list. Here are the latest:

Here are Answers

Off-Highway Vehicles Have Use Regulations

Each week a series of questions and answers will be published in these columns. Readers are urged to call or write in questions to which they want an official answer. Answer seekers need not identify themselves. Address "Traffic" P.O. Box 127, Lemon Grove, CA 92045 or call 469-0101.

A great increase in ownership of "off-highway" vehicles coupled with growing demands by owners, conservationists, livestock interests, and by federal and local government agencies, has led to the off-highway vehicle registration requirement.

The object was to set aside specific areas for this type of outdoor enjoyment, where such activity would not conflict with private property rights or with other valid uses of public domain.

One of the requirements for original registration is verification of the vehicle serial number by a Department of Motor Vehicles employee or any peace officer.

Here are some questions and answers supplied by DMV through the local Accident Reduction Team (A.R.T.)

What type of vehicle must be registered?

Trail bikes, dune buggies, and all-terrain vehicles used for recreational purposes on public land, and not otherwise licensed to use on public roads.

What types are not included?

Those operated only on their owner's private property or on someone else's private property with the consent of the owner or tenant, or vehicles used solely on lands commercially operated for off-highway recreation.

Also motor vehicles being driven in an organized racing or competitive event on a closed course.

What is the registration fee?

$15 for two years ending July 1 on the nearest even numbered year. Registration is good for six years. A tab will be issued every two years.

Do I have to pay a separate fee for my vehicle already registered for on-highway use?

No.

Where must the sticker be attached?

On whatever surface available to the rear of the vehicle. It must be readily visible and legible.

Suppose I sell my vehicle?

Endorse the ownership certificate and give it to the buyer who must also endorse it and forward it to a DMV office with $3. Buyers must also pay use (sales) tax.

Where can I use my off-highway vehicle?

Generally, on uncultivated, unposted or unfenced land, in San Diego County. Imperial County Code may vary. If there are signs, fences, or cultivation, drivers must have written permission from land owner. This does not apply to use of own, private property.

Off-highway vehicles may not use roads, streets or alleys, or any part of a public right of way, except for crossing.

Salvation Army Lists 3 Programs

The Salvation Army has geared up its holiday activities with three yuletide programs at its recently opened Christmas Office at 2490 Lytton St., Point Loma.

The new office serves as the central index for all charitable agencies in San Diego County involved with the distribution of canned goods and food baskets.

The Christmas Office also houses the Toy & Joy Center which provides thousands of toys for children.

The third activity headquartered is the "Adopt a Family" program.

LG Homes To Be Judged Next Week

The annual Christmas Home Decorating Contest, sponsored by the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, and the San Diego Gas and Electric Company will be judged next week, it was announced by the chamber.

In order to insure that a particular home is viewed by judges, residents should contact the chamber office at 469-9621 between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon or 1 and 3 p.m. no later than tomorrow.
